Part Song—"Dawn in the Forest"

C. JOS. BRAMBACH

Liedertafel

O! SWEET May night, so calm, so still,
All forest tones are sleeping,
Save voice of yonder purling rill
That o'er the stones is leaping.

O! Sweet May night, so calm, so still,
The flowers in their dreaming are swayed by the breeze,
Of golden sunlight breathe the trees,
And sweet sleep shrouds vale and hill.

Hark! 'tis a blackbird's sweet song begun;
The slumbering world is waking.
Arouse thee, to welcome the morning sun;
The trees their boughs are shaking.

The lark soars up to the bright'ning skies,
Pouring forth song even as he flies,
Rejoicing that night is gone!

And with the fuller glow of day,
The morning bells are ringing.
The burden of their fervent lay,
Our heart with them is singing.

This is their burden, this their song,
That fills all the world, as it flows along:—
"Praise be to God! Praise be to God alway!"

Liedertafel

(TENOR SOLO: MR. CHARLES SAUNDERS)

In the convent of Drontheim,
 Alone in her chamber
 Knelt Astrid the Abbess,
 At midnight, adoring,
 Beseeching, entreating,
 The Virgin and Mother.

She heard in the silence
 The voice of one speaking
 Without in the darkness,
 In gusts of the night-wind
 Now louder, now nearer,
 Now lost in the distance.

The voice of a stranger
 It seemed as she listened,
 Of some one who answered,
 Beseeching, imploring,
 A cry from afar off
 She could not distinguish.

The voice of Saint John,
 The beloved disciple,
 Who wandered and waited
 The Master's appearance,
 Alone in the darkness,
 Unsheltered and friendless.

"It is accepted,
 The angry defiance,
 The challenge of battle!
 It is accepted.
 But not with the weapons
 Of war that thou willest!"

" Cross against corselet,
 Love against hatred,
 Peace-cry for war-cry !
 Patience is powerful :
 He that o'ercometh
 Hath dower o'er the nations !

" As torrents in summer,
 Half dried in their channels,
 Suddenly rise though the
 Sky is still cloudless—
 For rain has been falling
 Far off at their fountains—

" So hearts that are fainting
 Grow full to o'erflowing,
 And they that behold it
 Marvel, and know not
 That God at their fountains
 Far off has been raining !

" Stronger than steel
 Is the sword of the spirit ;
 Swifter than arrows
 The light of the truth is ;
 Greater than anger
 Is love, and subdueth.

" Thou art a phantom,
 A shape of the sea mist,
 A shape of the brumal
 Rain, and the darkness
 Fearful and formless ;
 Day dawns, and thou art not !

" The dawn is not distant,
 Nor is the night starless ;
 Love is eternal ;
 God is still God, and
 His faith shall not fail us !
 Christ is eternal !"

INTERVAL OF FIVE MINUTES

PART II

Serenade—"Sleep, Dear One, Sleep"

DR. TORRANCE

Liedertafel

SLEEP, dear one, sleep, may thy rest be unbroken,
Save by pure thoughts wrapt in harmony divine,
Visions of night, heavenly voices, words unspoken,
Call us to meet in devotion at thy shrine.
Sleep, dear one, sleep.

Dream, fair one, dream, while we sing in sweet numbers,
Angels of light hover round thee ever near,
Nought can approach to disturb thy peaceful slumbers,
Guarded from harm by thy faithful watchers here.
Dream, fair one, dream.

Wake! loved one, wake; lo! the day breaks in splendour,
Earth's fairest flowers are responsive to the call,
Rise on our night, while this homage we would render,
Be thou our sun, pouring brightness over all.
Wake! loved one, wake.

Pianoforte Solo—

Part Song "O World, thou art wondrous fair"

F. HILLER

(SOPRANO SOLO: MRS. PALMER)

Liedertafel

O WORLD, thou art wondrous fair,
 O how fair, so fair, so fair!
 The birds they all know it well,
 While over the woods they flutter,
 And joyful sweet carols they utter,
 To the heav'ns their melodies swell.

O world, thou art wondrous fair,
 O how fair, so fair, so fair!
 They know it the waters all,
 Reflected in them all nature
 Stands, mountain and mead and creature,
 And the clouds as they float and fall.

The minstrels and painters know it,
 So does many a shepherd boy,
 They copy all and feel it,
 And those who sing reveal it,
 Their hearts so full of joy.

Part Song—“The Long Day Closes”

SULLIVAN

Liedertafel

No star is o’er the lake
 Its pale watch keeping,
 The moon is half awake,
 Through gray mist creeping.
 The last red leaves fall round
 The porch of roses,
 The clock hath ceased to sound,
 The long day closes.

Sit by the silent hearth
 In calm endeavour
 To count the sounds of mirth,
 Now dumb for ever.
 Heed not how hope believes,
 And fate disposes:
 Shadow is round the eaves,
 The long day closes.

The lighted windows dim
 Are fading slowly.
 The fire that was so trim
 Now quivers lowly.
 Go to the dreamless bed
 Where grief reposes;
 Thy book of toil is read,
 The long day closes.
