Double Chorus—

Bacchus Mendelssohn
(Antigone)

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN LIEDERTAFEL

Fair Semele's high-born son,
Thou many-named one,
Thou who callest thy father the Thunderer Jove!
Object of beautiful Italia's love;
Thou who crownest what Ceres bestoweth on all,
To thee now we call!
Hear us, Bacchus, in Thebes, thy Bacchantes' home,
Where the bright Ismenus, rolling her waters,
Unites the Dragon's sons and daughters.

On thy mount's double-crested heights,
Thy votive flames ascending,
With Corycian nymphs attending,
Grace thy mystic rites;
While pure Castalia laves the ground,
Thy lofty Nysian summit sings, ivy crowned,
 Thy praise!
 Vine and tree
 Warble to thee,
Thy votive trains chant thy lays:
Thy sacred chorus raises
And Thebes' fanes resound thy praises.
 Hear us, Bacchus!

Above all the rest,
Thebes thou hast guarded and blest.
She was its pride,
Who clasping the Thunderer died;
And now, seeking its lost repose,
We pray thee to come and heal its woes.
O, hither bend,
From thy Parnassian heights descend,
Or from over Eubœa's billows;
 Hear us, Bacchus!

Thou whose power inspires
All our torch-lit star-vieling choirs,
Guide our dance and lead our song,
Son of Jove for ever young!
Come with mirth and revelry;
Bring thy Naxian nymphs with thee;
Come, and let them, bounding before us,
Chime and time the tip-toe chorus,
To praise thee, adore thee, great Bacchus!
 Hear us, Bacchus!

As the Gloaming E. A. McDowell

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN LIEDERTAFEL

As the gloaming shadows creep
Through the forest deep,
Fra Nightingale sings sweet
Through the forest deep.

As through the trees the moonbeams sweep,
A maid with eager feet
Seeks in vain her lover to greet,
Ah, sweet! why moan and weep?

For aye, old Time will stealthy reap,
And hearts will cease to beat.
Still Fra Nightingale sings sweet,
Sings sweet when love is deep.

Songs of the Fleet Stanford

(Soloist - Mr. F. R. COLLIER)

(a) SAILING AT DAWN.

One by one the pale stars die before the day now,
One by one the great ships are stirring from their sleep,
Cables are all rumbling, anchors all a-weigh now,
Now the fleet's a fleet again, gliding towards the deep.

Now the fleet's a fleet again, bound upon the old ways,
Splendour of the past comes shining in the spray;
Admirals of old time, bring us on the bold ways!
Souls of all the sea-dogs, lead the line to-day!

Far away behind us town and tower are dwindling,
Home becomes a fair dream faded long ago;
Infinitely glorious the height of heaven is kindling,
Infinitely desolate the shoreless sea below.
Now the fleet's a fleet again, &c.

Once again with proud hearts we make the old surrender,
Once again with high hearts serve the age to be,
Not for us the warm life of Earth, secure and tender,
Ours the eternal wandering and warfare of the sea.
Now the fleet's a fleet again, &c.

(b) THE SONG OF THE SOU' WESTER.

The sun was lost in a leaden sky,
And the shore lay under our lee;
When a great Sou' Wester hurricane high
Came rollicking up the sea.
He played with the fleet as a boy with boats
Till out for the Downs we ran,
And he laughed with the roar of a thousand throats
At the militant ways of man:

Oh! I am the enemy most of might,
The other be who you please!
Gunner and guns may be all right,
Flags a-flying and armour tight,
But I am the fellow you've first to fight—
The giant that swings the seas!

A dozen of middles were down below
Chasing the X they love,
While the table curtseyed long and slow
And the lamps were giddy above.
And the lesson was all of a ship and a shot,
And some of it may have been true,
But the word they heard and never forgot
Was the word of the wind that blew:
Oh! I am the enemy most of might, &c.

The Middy with luck is a Captain soon,
With luck he may hear one day
His own big guns a-humming the tune,
" 'Twas in Trafalgar's Bay."
And whenever he goes, with friends or foes,
And whatever may there befall,
He'll hear for ever a voice he knows
For ever defying them all:
Oh! I am the enemy most of might, &c.

(c) THE MIDDLE WATCH.

In a blue dusk the ship astern
Uplifts her slender spars,
With golden lights that seem to burn
Among the silver stars.
Like fleets along a cloudy shore
The constellations creep,
Like planets on the ocean floor
Our silent course we keep.

And over the endless plain,
Out of the night forlorn
Rises a faint refrain,
A song of the day to be born—
Watch! Oh watch till ye find again
Life and the land of morn!

From a dim West to a dark East
Our lines unwavering head,
As if their motion long had ceased
And Time itself were dead.
Vainly we watch the deep below,
Vainly the void above;
They died a thousand years ago—
Life and the land we love.
But over the endless plain, &c.

(d) THE LITTLE ADMIRAL.

Stand by to reckon up your battleships,
Ten, twenty, thirty, there they go,
Brag about your cruisers like Leviathans—
A thousand men a-piece down below.
But here's just one little Admiral,
We're all of us his brothers and his sons,
And he's worth, O he's worth at the very least
Double all your tons and all your guns.
Stand by, &c.

See them on the forebridge signalling—
A score of men a-hauling hand to hand.
And the whole fleet flying like the wild geese
Moved by some mysterious command.
Where's the mighty will that shows the way to them.
The mind that sees ahead so quick and clear?
He's there, Sir, walking all alone there—
The little man whose voice you never hear.
Stand by, &c.

There are queer things that only come to sailormen:
They're true, but they're never understood;
And I know one thing about the Admiral,
That I can't rightly tell as I should,
I've been with him when hope sank under us—
He hardly seemed a mortal like the rest,
I could swear that he had stars upon his uniform,
And one sleeve pinned across his breast.
Stand by, &c.

Some day we're bound to sight the enemy,
He's coming, tho' he hasn't yet a name.
Keel to keel and gun to gun he'll challenge us
To meet him at the Great Armada game.
None knows what may be the end of it,
But we'll all give our bodies and our souls,
To see the little Admiral a-playing him
A rubber of the old Long Bowls!
Stand by, &c.

(e) FAREWELL.

Mother, with unbowed head
Hear thou across the sea
The farewell of the dead,
The dead who died for thee.
Greet them again with tender words and grave,
For, saving thee, themselves they could not save

Superb English Body and Border AXMINSTERS

SOME very fine shipments of these Splendid Carpets, in rich exclusive colourings and designs, have just been opened up. They are of an excellence seldom seen in these times, yet are priced to meet the needs of men of modest means. Having paid only one of the recent rises, they are offered below their actual present value.

Here are one or two:—

The "DELTA"—Rich Fawn Ground, with small, all-over black line tracery, relieved with an Arabic design in warm brown.

The "GANGES"—A soft treatment of Indian Colouring on Silver-grey Ground.

The "CANTON"—An exquisite effect, produced in Fawns and Tans on a Rich Saxe Blue Ground.

To keep the house unharmed
 Their fathers built so fair,
 Deeming endurance armed
 Better than brute despair,
 They found the secret of the word that saith,
 "Service is sweet, for all true life is death."

So greet thou well thy dead
 Across the homeless sea,
 And be thou comforted
 Because they died for thee.
 Far off they served, but now their deed is done,
 For evermore their life and thine are one.

Gondolier's Serenade Schubert

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN LIEDERTAFEL

While moon and stars above us
 Their airy dance renew,
 Say, why should sadness move us,
 Or earth-born care pursue?
 Behold! the soft beams play, love.
 Come in my bark away, love.
 And glide, from bondage free,
 Across the dark blue sea.
 Now midnight's boding number
 From good Saint Mark's I hear,
 And all are hushed in slumber,
 Except thy Gondolier.

(a) Wilt Thou be my Dearie? G. Bantock

(b) Always More R. Seifert

THE ROYAL VICTORIAN LIEDERTAFEL

(a) Wilt thou be my dearie?
When sorrow wrings thy gentle heart,
O wilt thou let me cheer thee?
By the treasure of my soul,
That's the love I bear thee:
I swear and vow that only thou
Shall ever be my dearie.

Lassie, say thou lo'es me,
Or, if thou wilt not be my ain,
Say thou'lt not refuse me.
If it winna, winna, canna be,
Thou for thine may choose,
Let me, lassie, quickly dee,
Still trusting that thou lo'es me.
Only thou, I swear and vow,
Shall ever be my dearie.

(b) Would I again might see her,
Ah, only once again!
But when I then had seen her,
Yet should I long to see her,
A thousand times again!

Her hand would I might hold now,
Ah, only once again!
But when I then had held it,
Yet should I long to hold it,
A thousand times again!

Would I again might kiss her,
Ah, only once again!
But when I then had kiss'd her,
Yet should I long to kiss her,
A thousand times again!

Send your Soldier Boy a Leather Coat

THE privations, climatic and otherwise, in the present great conflict are so very great—cold and damp predominating—that our boys need more protection than that given by the ordinary tunic and great coat.

It may keep his name out of the Casualty Lists

Our total Australian casualties to a recent date were 41,836, and of this number no fewer than 22,849 were sickness!

Won't you send him one of these coats? They're specially made by us of soft undressed leather, warm and comfortable, yet very light. They're Waterproof too, and by testing we find that this specially dressed leather will not harden like ordinary leather after being exposed to moisture.

Fur and woollen vests gather vermin; no such trouble with these. Any cleaning needed is easily done by rubbing with a piece of rag or paper. These coats have stood the test of active service, and are highly recommended by medical men as a splendid safeguard against sickness in the trenches.

They're also extensively used by motorists, farmers and others exposed to the weather.

"THE ANZAC"

Special light-weight leather Under-tunic, long sleeves, patent storm-proof cuffs, two large waterproof pockets. Lined with linen. A most reliable, warm, and waterproof coat: will resist any stormy weather. Dark tan colour. Best quality.

"THE A.I.F."

Very similar coat to the "Anzac," except that it is made up in a slightly cheaper quality. This coat is equally as proof against stormy weather as the "Anzac." We can thoroughly recommend it. Khaki in colour

"THE NE-ERWET"

A light-weight leather waistcoat with an extra long back. Lined with linen. Two patent waterproof pockets, guaranteed quite waterproof. Without sleeves.

"THE MUTUAL"

Our extra special value waistcoat, similar to the "Ne-erwet," but without lining. Quite waterproof: a splendid protection against cold winds, no sleeves
