Programme

Under the Baton of
Mr. August Siede.

• Part I. •

Landerkenning Eduard Greig

For Baritone Solo, Male
Chorus, Orchestra and Organ.

Soloist: Mr. E. A. Wre.

AND it was Olav Trygvason,
Sailing on the north sea wide,
Bearing the hope to found a kingdom,
Far on the other side.
Yonder the cliffs appearing,
Like a battlement loom, their dark crest rearing,
And it was Olav Trygvason,
Found he ne'er a spot to land,
E'en like the waves the royal desire,
Shattered upon the strand.
"See!" cried the bard unleaping,
"Yonder snow covered-peaks o'er cloud bands peeping."

And it was Olav Trygvason,
Suddenly he seemed to sight
Towering temples, domes and spires,
Glist'ning in virgin white.
Then vowed the king undaunted,
With his followers to tread that land enchanted,
Onward he went; the rushing streams
Heralded the coming spring,
Swayed in the stormy wind the forest strangely
was murmuring,
Sounds as of church bells chiming,
And then spake the king,
Spake as tho' dreaming:
"Here the spot to found our kingdom!
Hell! these temple walls defy thee!
Hearts are swelling, souls are yearning,
God to thee alone be glory.

ALLEGRO CON BRIO—ANDANTE CON MOTO—

ALLEGRO $\frac{3}{4}$ —ALLEGRO $\frac{2}{2}$ —PRESTO.

Beethoven, when asked what he meant by the remarkable phrase which opens this Symphony, replied—"Fate knocks at the door." Throughout the first movement there seems to be a conflict between the human element and that mysterious force which overshadows it—we are reminded of the hapless Odysseus of Homer driven to and fro, ever striving towards the land of his hopes. The second movement seems to be "an outburst of love divine," not unmingled with sorrow, and doubt; especially is the "sehnsvoll" theme of the wind, which follows on the melody of the 'cellos, to be noted. The third movement partakes more of the nature of the opening, and may be likened to the wanderer in his restless and fruitless search for the desired goal, interrupted only for a moment by the strange scene opened out by the Trio, which speedily is covered from sight as by the falling of a mist. The former mood is resumed, and leads into the triumphant finale, in which, as Balzac said, "we are held in the grasp of our most sacred hopes, which are realised for an instant as we listen."

Part II.

Hymn to the Night Julius Siede

For Tenor and Bass Soli,
Male Chorus and Orchestra.

Tenor Solo: Mr. J. Gregor Wood.

Bass Solo: Mr. E. A. Ure.

I SAW the trailing garments of the night
Sweep through her marble halls;
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls.
I felt her presence, by its spell of might,
Stoop o'er me from above,
The calm majestic presence of the night,
As of the one I love.
I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight.
The manifold soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the night
Like some old poet's rhymes.
From the cool cistern of the midnight air,
My spirit drank repose,
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there,
From those deep cisterns flows.
O holy night, from thee I learn to bear,
What man has born before,
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of care
And they complain no more.
Peace! Peace! Orestes like I breathe this prayer,
Descend with broad-winged flight;
The welcome, the thrice paid for,
The most fair, the best beloved night.

Aria—Ah! Rendimi Quel Core

(Mitrane) Francesco Rossi

Miss Elva Rogers.

Indian Love Song Heinrich Zollner

(Longfellow's "Hiawatha")

For Male Chorus and Orchestra.

ONAWAY, awake, beloved,
Thou wild flower of the forest,
Thou the wild bird of the prairie,
Thou with eyes so soft and brown !
If thou only lookest at me,
I am happy, I am happy !
As the lilies of the prairie,
When they dew upon them feel !

Sweet thy breath is as the fragrance of the flowers
in the morn,
As their fragrance is at evening, in the Moon when leaves do fall,
Does not all the blood within me leap to meet thee,
Onaway,
As the springs to meet the sunshine in the Moon
when nights are bright ?
Onaway !

Onaway ! my heart sings to thee,
Sings with joy, when thou art near,
As the sighing, singing branches
In the pleasant Springtime Moon.
When thou art not pleased, beloved,
Then my heart is sad and dark,
As the shining river darkens
When the clouds on it throw shade.

When thou smilest, my beloved,
Then my troubled heart is brightened,
As in sunshine gleam the ripples,
That cold winds in rivers make.

Smiles the earth and smile the waters,
Smile the cloudless skies above,
But I lose the way of smiling
When thou art no longer near.
Onaway ! I myself, behold me !
Blood of my beating heart, behold !
O awake, awake, beloved,
Onaway ! beloved awake,
Onaway ! Onaway ! Onaway, awake
Awake ! loved one, Onaway !

Song—Still as the Night Cari Bohm

Miss Ethel Benson.

Fest Gesang Mendelssohn

For Quartette, Male
Chorus and Orchestra.

Double Quartette:

Messrs. H. J. ROBINSON, A. PARDY,
T. GRAY, A. RODDICK, G. A. DAY,
J. BIRD, F. PEPPER, F. W. THOMAS.

THE Nation's glory into your hands now is given.
Oh, guard it well.
To sink with you, or with you rise to heaven.
The magic spell of art and song
Links all the worlds that roll along,
So may they ever blended be in richest harmony.
Her voice is like the dreadful thunder,
Terrible in its mighty anger.
It rises on victorious pinions, and vengeance takes on foes and minions—
Strikes terror to the tyrant's heart.
If truth to exile e'er be driven.
Then to her aid the Muse arisen
Shall find revenge in lofty tuneful song.
Oh, freeborn sons of art arise!
Lift up your head to beauty's throne,
And as with her you mount the skies,
All lesser crowns disown.
The thousand various ways unending
Of rich humanity explore,
Till, from the summit's height extending,
Behold the vast eternal shore.

The thanks of the Society are due to the Members of the Hawthorn Orchestral Society, and to Mr. Mansley Greer (Organist), who are kindly assisting this evening; to C. L. Pinschof, Esq., for loan of Orchestral Parts of "Mitrae," and also to Messrs. W. H. Glen & Co, Collins St., for use of Box Office.
