THE QUALITY BRUSH

*that is good for your hair . . .
. . . and kind to your pocket*

If you take a pride in your hair you'll always use a "HINDELIFE" rubber cushion hair brush. Its pure stiff bristles penetrate to the roots, the massage action promoting the growth—keeping the scalp clean and healthy. Strongly made, with a handsome polished finish. You cannot get a better quality brush at so reasonable a price—comparison will convince you of that! And remember the "HINDELIFE" lasts twice as long!

Why not get one to-day? From all Chemists, Hairdressers and Stores.

£150,000

Urgently Required

The Committee earnestly appeals for £150,000 to provide much-needed extensions to the Research Institute, Enlargement and Modernisation of the Wards, some of which date back to 1851, and a new addition to the Nurses' Home.

Without these necessary and too-long-deferred extensions, the work of the Doctors and Scientists must suffer restriction.

BOOKS . . . be up-to-date!

- Do you keep up-to-date with the world of books?
- JOHN O' LONDON'S WEEKLY not only provides a straightforward and authoritative guide to modern literature; it also helps the busy man or woman to keep well informed. Week by week, all the most important new books are reviewed by such authorities as Richard Church, Edward Shanks, Osbert Burdett, A. G. Macdonell, Hamilton Fyfe, Frank Kendon, Hugh Ross Williamson, Mary Crosbie and John Brophy.
- JOHN O' LONDON'S offers more than hurried reviews or mere lists of titles; wherever possible, it presents the whole essence of an outstanding new book in the form of a full-length article, thus keeping its readers in touch with every phrase of current thought.
- And the many general articles in the paper, and the literary competitions, are as fascinating as the articles about books.

Every Saturday—2d.

For Town Wear

The shaped and bound brim of this Hat strikes a note of character and smartness unequalled by any other form of Soft Felt Hat. A range of shapes and colours are available, sufficient for the most fastidious taste.

For the Country

For leisure hours and informal wear, the Soft Felt Hat turned down in front is ideal. The brims of Woodrow Hats turn down with a smooth well-balanced curve; a large variety of colours and shapes are always in stock.

THE WASH

NATURE'S SOLUTION OF A 'PERMANENT' PROBLEM

For over 30 years a Father and Son went regularly to Lincoln to shoot wild fowl on the marsh land of the Wash; but this marsh land not only provided sport but also a great scientific discovery in two small rare plants. Mr. Rudolph persisted in careful research which revealed that these plants could provide invaluable formula for an entirely new method of Permanent Waving. By its use the hair is left in its natural condition. There is no possibility of breaking or of white hair turning yellow. The wave produced is strong, without fear of frizzing, and setting becomes easy and natural. In fact, this formula appears to reproduce the natural waves of the sea in the waves of the hair.

Mr. Rudolph has by personal investigation perfected his discovery, and the now famous "Vico Perm" is true testimony to the claims made for it.

Free consultations are welcomed, and test curlers taken free of charge.

RADIUM v. GREY HAIR

20 Years

Younger!

Write
for free
Booklet

It's astonishing how grey hairs age one, but still more astonishing how a short course of 'Caradium' Hair Restorer makes the grey-haired look 10 to 20 years younger 'Caradium' is not a Dye or Stain.

The secret of its wonderful power rests partly in the Radio-active water with which it is prepared, and its results look natural because 'Caradium' re-grows the original beautiful colour right from the hair roots. 'Caradium' will stop your HAIR FALLING AND REMOVE EVERY TRACE OF DANDRUFF AT ONCE.

'CARADIUM' is NOT A DYE

Caradium is absolutely undetectable, so natural is the course of restoration. 'Caradium' has, during the last twenty years, restored scores of thousands of heads with grey and impoverished hair to perfect health, colour and beauty. Sheaves of original testimonials from all parts (can be seen at the House of Caradium) speak highly in praise of this wonderful preparation.

Grey Hair will never appear if Caradium is used once Weekly as a Tonic. Caradium Shampoo Powders. The finest in the world for producing Soft and Glossy hair, 6d. each. Packets of twelve, 5/-.

WARNING.—Ask for Caradium Regd. and see that you get it; imitations are useless.

Caradium

REGD.

A 4/- size is now available for those only slightly grey. Large Size
4/- 'Caradium' Hair Restorer is obtainable of all good Chemists, Harrods, Whiteleys, Barkers, Selfridges, Timothy Whites, Boots, Taylor's Drug Stores, etc., or direct in plain wrapper (overseas postage 2/6 extra) from 'CARADIUM' (Regd.) 38, Great Smith Street, Westminster, London 7/6

SCENES FROM THE SONG OF HIAWATHA

In performance a few words have been altered to bring the narrative into the present tense.

The story of this Opera forms a part of Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha." It is divided into three Acts—"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," "The Death of Minnehaha," and "Hiawatha's Departure."

To understand the story it is necessary to know that it had been revealed to the Indian tribes by Gitche Manito, the Great Spirit and Creator of all living things, that he would send to them from the land where there is no sin and no darkness, and where all is bathed in the glory of light and love, a great prophet who would teach them to adore the beauty of peace and who, after suffering with them the sorrows and privations of mankind, would lead them into the golden dawn of a new world.

In the fulness of time, Hiawatha was born, and became a great prophet, teacher and statesman. Under his influence five adjacent tribes buried the hatchet and welded themselves together as a powerful confederation which became allied to the British settlers and fought beside them against the Hurons and their allies, the French. Thus, Hiawatha played a considerable part in the history of the formation of the British Empire, in that he assisted to a great extent in the acquisition of Canada.

I.—HIAWATHA'S WEDDING FEAST

Hiawatha was a man as other men, and wooed and won sweet Laughing Water, Minnehaha from the land of the Dakotahs. The Opera opens with the festivities at their marriage, and gay are the guests as they offer their presents and receive the generous hospitality of their host. Quip and jest pass round. Pau-Puk-Keewis leaps and twines in dance with the grace of a barbaric savage. The Medicine Man brews a Peyote plant potion, of which the guests partake, and through its magic visualise an ancient myth of a Young Chief who relinquishes his earthly body to seek his beloved in the Land of the Hereafter. He finds her, and soul meets soul in the Happy Hunting Grounds. Supreme happiness is his till he is reminded by Gitche Manito, the Mighty, that he is mortal and must return to fulfil his destiny on Earth. The return of the Young Chief to his people is celebrated by a thrilling totem dance, in which all the tribe takes part, and give vent to their feeling in the hiss of the serpent, the bark of the fox, the shriek of the eagle or the bellow of the buffalo, according to the nature of their totem. Song follows dance, and Chibiabos, the singer of sweet songs, sounds the keynote of passionate love in the ears of his entranced listeners.

The Marriage Feast is over. Happy and joyous, the guests, led by Iagoo, the marvellous storyteller, depart to their wigwams, and alone in the moonlight are Hiawatha and Minnehaha.

You shall hear how Pau-Puk-Keewis,
How the handsome Yenadizze,
Danced at Hiawatha's wedding ;
How the gentle Chibiabos,
He the sweetest of musicians,
Sang his songs of love and longing,
How Iagoo, the great boaster,
He the marvellous storyteller,
Told his tales of strange adventure,
That the feast might be more joyous,
That the time might pass more gaily
And the guests be more contented.
Sumptuous was the feast Nokomis
Made at Hiawatha's wedding.
All the bowls were made of bass-wood
White and polished very smoothly,
All the spoons of horn of bison,
Black and polished very smoothly.

She had sent through all the village
Messengers with wands of willow,
As a sign of invitation,
As a token of the feasting ;
And the wedding-guests assembled,
Clad in all their richest raiment,
Robes of fur and belts of wampum,
Splendid with their paint and plumage,
Beautiful with beads and tassels.

First they ate the sturgeon, Nahma,
And the pike, the Maskenozha,
Caught and cooked by old Nokomis,
Then on pemican they feasted,
Pemican and buffalo marrow,
Haunch of deer and hump of bison,
Yellow cakes of the Mondamin,
And the wild rice of the river.

But the gracious Hiawatha,

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING FEAST

And the lovely Laughing Water,
And the careful old Nokomis,
Tasted not the food before them,
Only waited on the others,
Only served their guests in silence.

And when all the guests had finished,
Old Nokomis, brisk and busy,
From an ample pouch of otter,
Filled the red stone pipes for smoking
With tobacco from the South-land,
Mixed with bark of the red willow,
And with herbs and leaves of fragrance.

Then she said, "O Pau-Puk-Keewis,
Dance for us your merry dances,
Dance the Beggar's Dance to please us,
That the feast may be more joyous,
That the time may pass more gaily,
And our guests be more contented!"

Then the handsome Pau-Puk-Keewis,
He the idle Yenadizze,
He the merry mischief-maker,
Whom the people called the Storm-Fool,
Rose among the guests assembled.

Skilled was he in sports and pastimes,
In the merry dance of snow-shoes,
In the play of quoits and ball-play;
Skilled was he in games of hazard,
In all games of skill and hazard,
Pugasaing, the Bowl and Counters,
Koomtassoo, the Game of Plum-stones.

Though the warriors called him Faint-Heart
Called him coward, Shaugodaya,
Idler, gambler, Yenadizze,
Little heeded he their jesting,
Little cared he for their insults,
For the women and the maidens
Loved the handsome Pau-Puk-Keewis.

He was dressed in shirt of doe-skin,
White and soft, and fringed with ermine,
All inwrought with beads of wampum;
He was dressed in deer-skin leggings,
Fringed with hedgehog quills and ermine,
And in moccasins of buck-skin
Thick with quills and beads embroidered.
On his head were plumes of swan's down,
On his heels were tails of foxes,
In one hand a fan of feathers,
And a pipe was in the other.

Barred with streaks of red and yellow,
Streaks of blue and bright vermilion,
Shone the face of Pau-Puk-Keewis,
From his forehead fell his tresses,
Smooth and parted like a woman's,
Shining bright with oil, and plaited,
Hung with braids of scented grasses,
As among the guests assembled,
To the sound of flutes and singing,
To the sounds of drums and voices,
Rose the handsome Pau-Puk-Keewis,
And began his mystic dances.

First he danced a solemn measure,
Very slow in step and gesture,

In and out among the pine trees,
Through the shadows and the sunshine,
Treading softly like a panther,
Then more swiftly and still swifter,
Whirling, spinning round in circles,
Leaping o'er the guests assembled,
Eddying round and round the wigwam,
Till the leaves went whirling with him,
Till the dust and wind together
Swept in eddies round about him.

Then along the sandy margin
Of the lake, the Big-Sea-Water,
On he sped with frenzied gestures,
Stamped upon the sand, and tossed it
Wildly in the air around him;
Till the wind became a whirlwind,
Till the sand was blown and sifted
Like great snowdrifts o'er the landscape,
Heaping all the shores with Sand Dunes,
Sand Hills of the Nagow Wudjoo!

Thus the merry Pau-Puk-Keewis
Danced his Beggar's Dance to please them,
And, returning, sat down laughing
There among the guests assembled,
Sat and fanned himself serenely
With his fan of turkey-feathers.

Then they said to Chibiabos,
To the friend of Hiawatha,
To the sweetest of all singers,
To the best of all musicians,
"Sing to us, O Chibiabos!
Songs of love and songs of longing,
That the feast may be more joyous,
That the time may pass more gaily,
And our guests be more contented!"

And the gentle Chibiabos
Sang in accents sweet and tender,
Sang in tones of deep emotion,
Songs of love and songs of longing,
Looking still at Hiawatha,
Looking at fair Laughing Water,
Sang he softly, sang in this wise:

"Onaway! Awake, beloved!
Thou the wild-flower of the forest!
Thou the wild-bird of the prairie!
Thou with eyes so soft and fawn-like!

"If thou only lookest at me,
I am happy, I am happy,
As the lilies of the prairie,
When they feel the dew upon them!

"Sweet thy breath is as the fragrance
Of the wild-flowers in the morning,
As their fragrance is at evening,
In the Moon when leaves are falling.

"Does not all the blood within me
Leap to meet thee, leap to meet thee,
As the springs to meet the sunshine,
In the Moon when nights are brightest?

"Onaway! my heart sings to thee,
Sings with joy when thou art near me,

HIAWATHA'S WEDDING FEAST

As the sighing, singing branches
In the pleasant Moon of Strawberries !
" When thou art not pleased, beloved,
Then my heart is sad and darkened,
As the shining river darkens
When the clouds drop shadows on it !
" When thou smilest, my beloved,
Then my troubled heart is brightened,
As in sunshine gleam the ripples
That the cold wind makes in rivers.
" Smiles the earth, and smile the waters,
Smile the cloudless skies above us,
But I lose the way of smiling
When thou art no longer near me !
" I myself, myself ! behold me !
Blood of my beating heart, behold me !
O awake, awake, beloved !
Onaway ! awake, beloved ! "

Thus the gentle Chibiabos
Sang his song of love and longing ;
And Iagoo, the great boaster,
He the marvellous storyteller,
He the friend of old Nokomis,
Jealous of the sweet musician,
Jealous of the applause they gave him,
Saw in all the eyes around him,
Saw in all their looks and gestures,
That the wedding-guests assembled
Longed to hear his pleasant stories,
His immeasurable falsehoods.

Very boastful was Iagoo :
Never heard he an adventure
But himself had made a greater ;
Never any deed of daring
But himself had done a bolder ;
Never any marvellous story
But himself could tell a stranger
Would you listen to his boasting,
Would you only give him credence,
No one ever shot an arrow
Half so far and high as he had ;
Ever caught so many fishes,
Ever killed so many reindeer,
Ever trapped so many beaver !

None could run so fast as he could,
None could dive so deep as he could.

None could swim so far as he could ;
None had made so many journeys,
None had seen so many wonders,
As this wonderful Iagoo,
As this marvellous storyteller !

Thus his name became a by-word
And a jest among the people !
And whene'er a boastful hunter
Praised his own address too highly,
Or a warrior, home returning,
Talked too much of his achievements,
All his hearers cried, " Iagoo !
Here's Iagoo come among us ! "

He it was who carved the cradle
Of the little Hiawatha,
Carved its framework out of linden,
Bound it strong with reindeer's sinews ;
He it was who taught him later
How to make his bows and arrows,
How to make the bows of ash-tree,
And the arrows of the oak-tree.
So among the guests assembled
At my Hiawatha's wedding
Sat Iagoo, old and ugly,
Sat the marvellous storyteller.

And they said, " O good Iagoo,
Tell us now a tale of wonder,
Tell us of some strange adventure,
That the feast may be more joyous,
That the time may pass more gaily,
And our guests be more contented ! "

And Iagoo answered straightway,
" You shall hear a tale of wonder,
You shall hear of strange adventures."
So he told the strange adventures
Of Osseo, the Magician,
From the Evening Star descended.

Such was Hiawatha's Wedding,
Thus the wedding-banquet ended,
And the wedding-guests departed,
Leaving Hiawatha happy
With the night and Minnehaha.

II.—THE DEATH OF MINNEHAHA

Summer is over, and Winter grips valley and mountain in its icy clutch. Fever and Famine stalk abroad. Clinging to each other for warmth, the stricken Indians cower and shiver beneath their blankets. And what of the lovely Minnehaha—"Minnehaha, Laughing Water, Loveliest of Dacotah women"? In the absence of Hiawatha—who has gone to seek vainly for food for his people, succour for his bride—she is sick unto death, and dread phantoms bend over her couch. Finally, with a wild cry "Hiawatha! Hiawatha!" she dies in delirium. "Far away amid the forest, miles away among the mountains" the wanderer hears that cry. Homeward hurries Hiawatha. Passionately, despairingly, he flings himself beside the dead body of his beloved, and the old nurse Nokomis sobs out her anguish. The sorrowing Indians moan and wail forth their sorrow, and over the mountains falls the snow.

There is a pause to show the passage of seven days, and then the body of Minnehaha is borne away in stately procession, clothed in her richest garments, wrapped in her robes of ermine, ready for her journey to the Islands of the Blessed.

O the long and dreary Winter !
O the cold and cruel Winter !
Ever thicker, thicker, thicker,
Froze the ice on lake and river,
Ever deeper, deeper, deeper,
Fell the snow o'er all the landscape,
Fell the covering snow, and drifted
Through the forest, round the village.
Hardly from his buried wigwam
Could the hunter force a passage ;
With his mittens and his snow-shoes
Vainly walked he through the forest,
Sought for bird or beast and found none,
Saw no track of deer or rabbit,
In the snow beheld no footprints,
In the ghastly, gleaming forest
Fell, and could not rise from weakness,
Perished there from cold and hunger.

O the famine and the fever !
O the wasting of the famine !
O the blasting of the fever !
O the wailing of the children !
O the anguish of the women !
All the earth was sick and famished,
Hungry was the air around them,
Hungry was the sky above them,
And the hungry stars in heaven
Like the eyes of wolves glared at them !

Into Hiawatha's wigwam
Came two silent guests and gloomy,
Waited not to be invited,
Did not parley at the doorway,
Sat there without word of welcome
In the seat of Laughing Water ;
Looked with haggard eyes and hollow
At the face of Laughing Water.
And the foremost said, "Behold me !
I am Famine, Buckadawin !"
And the other said, "Behold me !
I am Fever, Ahkosewin !"
And the lovely Minnehaha
Shuddered as they looked upon her,

Shuddered at the words they uttered,
Lay down on her bed in silence,
Hid her face, but made no answer ;
Lay there trembling, freezing, burning
At the looks they cast upon her,
At the fearful words they uttered.

Forth into the empty forest
Rushed the maddened Hiawatha ;
In his heart was deadly sorrow,
In his face a stony firmness ;
On his brow the sweat of anguish
Started, but it froze, and fell not.

Wrapped in furs, and armed for hunting,
With his mighty bow of ash-tree,
With his quiver full of arrows,
With his mittens, Minjekahwun,
Into the vast and vacant forest
On his snow-shoes strode he forward.

"Gitche Manito, the Mighty !"
Cried he with his face uplifted
In that bitter hour of anguish,
"Give your children food, O father !
Give us food, or we must perish !
Give me food for Minnehaha,
For my dying Minnehaha !"

Through the far-resounding forest,
Through the forest vast and vacant,
Rang that cry of desolation,
But there came no other answer
Than the echo of his crying,
Than the echo of the woodlands,
"Minnehaha ! Minnehaha !"

All day long roved Hiawatha
In that melancholy forest,
Through the shadow of whose thickets,
In the pleasant days of Summer,
Of that ne'er-forgotten Summer,
He had brought his young wife homeward,
From the land of the Dacotahs ;
When the birds sang in the thickets,
And the streamlets laughed and glistened,
And the air was full of fragrance,

THE DEATH OF MINNEHAHA

And the lovely Laughing Water
Said, with voice that did not tremble,
"I will follow you, my husband!"

In the wigwam with Nokomis,
With those gloomy guests that watched her,
With the Famine and the Fever,
She was lying, the Beloved,
She the dying Minnehaha.

"Hark!" she said, "I hear a rushing,
Hear a roaring and a rushing,
Hear the Falls of Minnehaha
Calling to me from a distance!"
"No, my child!" said old Nokomis,
"'Tis the night-wind in the pine-trees!"
"Look!" she said, "I see my father
Standing lonely at his doorway,
Beckoning to me from his wigwam,
In the land of the Dacotahs!"
"No, my child!" said old Nokomis,
"'Tis the smoke that waves and beckons!"
"Ah!" she said, "the eyes of Pauguk
Glare upon me in the darkness;
I can feel his icy fingers
Clasping mine amid the darkness!
Hiawatha! Hiawatha!"

And the desolate Hiawatha,
Far away amid the forest,
Miles away among the mountains,
Heard that sudden cry of anguish,
Heard the voice of Minnehaha
Calling to him in the darkness,
"Hiawatha! Hiawatha!"

Over snow-fields waste and pathless
Under snow-encumbered branches.
Homeward hurried Hiawatha,
Empty-handed, heavy-hearted,
Heard Nokomis moaning, wailing,
"Wahonomin! Wahonomin!
Would that I had perished for you,
Would that I were dead as you are!
Wahonomin! Wahonomin!"
And he rushed into the wigwam,
Saw the old Nokomis slowly
Rocking to and fro and moaning,
Saw his lovely Minnehaha
Lying dead and cold before him;
And his bursting heart within him
Uttered such a cry of anguish,

That the forest moaned and shuddered,
That the very stars in heaven
Shook and trembled with his anguish.

Then he sat down, still and speechless,
On the bed of Minnehaha,
At the feet of Laughing Water,
At those willing feet, that never
More would lightly run to meet him,
Never more would lightly follow.

With both hands his face he covered,
Seven long days and nights he sat there,
As if in a swoon he sat there,
Speechless, motionless, unconscious
Of the daylight or the darkness.

Then they buried Minnehaha:
In the snow a grave they made her,
In the forest deep and darksome,
Underneath the moaning hemlocks;
Clothed her in her richest garments,
Wrapped her in her robes of ermine,
Covered her with snow, like ermine;
Thus they buried Minnehaha.

And at night a fire was lighted,
On her grave four times was kindled,
For her soul upon its journey
To the Islands of the Blessed.
From his doorway Hiawatha
Saw it burning in the forest,
Lighting up the gloomy hemlocks;
From his sleepless bed uprising,
From the bed of Minnehaha,
Stood and watched it at the doorway,
That it might not be extinguished,
Might not leave her in the darkness.

"Farewell!" said he, "Minnehaha
Farewell, O my Laughing Water!
All my heart is buried with you,
All my thoughts go onward with you!
Come not back again to labour,
Come not back again to suffer,
Where the Famine and the Fever
Wear the heart and waste the body.
Soon my task will be completed,
Soon your footsteps I shall follow
To the Islands of the Blessed,
To the kingdom of Ponemah!
To the land of the Hereafter!"

III.—HIAWATHA'S DEPARTURE

Nature is eternally young. The Third Act opens with a Ballet of Spring, symbolising life bursting forth throughout a rejuvenated world. Then Iagoo, the boaster, tells of how he had seen 100 warriors coming over a great water—"bitter so that none could drink it"—in a "great canoe with pinions." He is mocked at by the Indians. "Kaw," they say, "what lies you tell us!" But Hiawatha declares that Iagoo speaks truth. The strangers are the coming White Race—traders, settlers and missionaries—bringing to the depths of the virgin forest civilisation and the Faith and Hope of Christianity.

And presently this prophecy is fulfilled. The Blackrobe Chief, with the cross upon his bosom, accompanied by his guides and companions, lands on the sandy margin of the lake—bearing a message of Peace and Goodwill on earth.

Hiawatha's mission is at an end. Bidding his people cultivate friendship and unity, he steps into his magic canoe, and as it floats down the stream, the whole tribe raise their arms and their voices in final farewell. As their voices sound and swell and triumph, the vast crowd, the camp, valleys, trees and distant mountain peaks are mantled in solemn light, and in a blaze of sound and colour, Hiawatha westward passes away into the golden sunset. So ends the "Song of Hiawatha."

Spring had come with all its splendour
All its birds and all its blossoms,
All its flowers and leaves and grasses,
Sailing on the wind to northward,
Flying in great flocks, like arrows,
Like huge arrows shot through heaven,
Passed the swan, the Mahnahbezee,
Speaking almost as a man speaks;
And in long lines waving, bending
Like a bowstring snapped asunder,
The white goose, the Waw-be-wawa;
And in pairs, or singly flying,
Mahng the loon, with clangorous pinions,
The blue heron, the Shuh-shuh-gah,
And the grouse, the Mushkodasa.

In the thickets and the meadows
Piped the blue-bird, the Owaissa;
On the summit of the lodges
Sang the robin, the Opechee;
And the sorrowing Hiawatha,
Speechless in his infinite sorrow,
Heard their voices calling to him,
Went forth from his gloomy doorway,
Stood and gazed into the heaven,
Gazed upon the earth and waters.

From his wanderings far to eastward,
From the regions of the morning,
From the shining land of Wabun,
Homeward now returned Iagoo,
The great traveller, the great boaster,
Full of new and strange adventures,
Marvels many and many wonders.

And the people of the village
Listened to him as he told them
Of his marvellous adventures,
Laughing answered him in this wise:
"Ugh! it is indeed Iagoo:
No one else beholds such wonders!"

He had seen, he said, a water
Bigger than the Big-Sea-Water,
Broader than the Gitche Gumee,
Bitter so that none could drink it!
At each other looked the warriors,
Looked the women at each other,
Smiled, and said, "It cannot be so!
Kaw!" they said, "it cannot be so!"

O'er it, said he, o'er this water
A canoe with wings came flying,
Bigger than a grove of pine-trees,
Taller than the tallest tree-tops!
And the old men and the women
Looked and tittered at each other.
"Kaw!" they said, "we don't believe it!"

From its mouth, he said, to greet him,
Came Waywassimo, the lightning,
Came the thunder, Annemeekee!
And the warriors and the women
Laughed aloud at poor Iagoo;
"Kaw!" said they, "what tales you tell us!"

In the great canoe with pinions
Came, he said, a hundred warriors;
Painted white were all their faces,
And with hair their chins were covered!
And the warriors and the women
Laughed and shouted in derision,
Like the ravens on the tree-tops,
Like the crows upon the hemlocks.
"Kaw!" they said, "what lies you tell us!
Do not think that we believe them!"

Only Hiawatha laughed not,
But he gravely spake and answered
To their jeering and their jesting:

most of us are blessed with . . .

. . . most of us are blessed with limited means and have to do a little deep thinking to get the most out of life . . . yet we ourselves find it difficult to think of a more sensible way of investing a few pounds than in something which not only gives your home a constant flow of clean entertainment but is also a subtle influence towards clear-thinking and the development of wider interests. Life in a good many British homes to-day tends to revolve round the Marconiphone, with its non-stop entertainment—its glorious interpretation of good music—its authoritative information on this, that or the other thing—and its last-minute news on matters that really matter. So very important indeed has radio become in home life that it deserves to be not only the very latest but above all a Marconiphone . . . because of this we think you should take the opportunity of seeing and hearing the new radio-gramophone. (You will, of course, be under no obligation whatever to purchase).

★ The Model 239 illustrated is a 5-valve superheterodyne Radio-gramophone of exceptionally fine range, selectivity and tone. If you think (in spite of all it offers you) that 22 guineas is too big an investment for you, your local Marconi-man will probably suggest the table-grand (model 219) at 12½ guineas. Most people nowadays prefer to extend their purchase, which works out at only a few shillings a week on either model referred to.

MARCONIPHONE

the REAL thing in RADIO

Write to the Marconiphone Company Ltd., Radio House, 210 Tottenham Court Road, London, W.1. They will make arrangements with their local Marconi-men for you to hear Model 239.

" True is all Iagoo tells us ;
I have seen it in a vision,
Seen the great canoe with pinions,
Seen the people with white faces,
Seen the coming of this bearded
People of the wooden vessel,
From the regions of the morning,
From the shining land of Wabun.

" Gitche Manito, the Mighty,
The Great Spirit, the Creator,
Sends them hither on his errand,
Sends them to us with his message.
Wheresoe'er they move, before them
Swarms the stinging fly, the Ahmo,
Swarms the bee, the honey-maker ;
Wheresoe'er they tread, beneath them
Springs a flower unknown among us,
Springs the White-man's Foot in blossom.

" Let us welcome, then, the strangers,
Hail them as our friends and brothers,
And the heart's right hand of friendship
Give them when they come to see us.
Gitche Manito, the Mighty,
Said this to me in my vision.

" I beheld, too, in that vision
All the secrets of the future,
Of the distant days that shall be.
I beheld the westward marches
Of the unknown, crowded nations.
All the land was full of people,
Restless, struggling, toiling, striving,
Speaking many tongues, yet feeling
But one heart-beat in their bosoms.
In the woodlands rang their axes,
Smoked their towns in all the valleys,
Over all the lakes and rivers
Rushed their great canoes of thunder.

" Then a darker, drearier vision
Passed before me, vague and cloud-like,
I beheld our nations scattered,
All forgetful of my counsels,
Weakened, warring with each other ;
Saw the remnants of our people
Sweeping westward, wild and woeful,
Like the cloud-rack of a tempest,
Like the withered leaves of Autumn !"

By the shore of Gitche Gumeë,
By the shining Big-Sea-Water,
At the doorway of his wigwam,
In the pleasant Summer morning
Hiawatha stood and waited.

All the air was full of freshness,
All the earth was bright and joyous,
And before him through the sunshine,
Westward toward the neighbouring forest
Passed in golden swarms the Ahmo,
Passed the bees, the honey-makers,
Burning, singing in the sunshine.

Bright above him shone the heavens,
Level spread the lake before him ;
From its bosom leaped the sturgeon,
Sparkling, flashing in the sunshine,
On its margin the great forest
Stood reflected in the water,
Every tree-top had its shadow,
Motionless, beneath the water.

From the brow of Hiawatha
Gone was every trace of sorrow,
As a fog from off the water,
As the mist from off the meadow,
With a smile of joy and triumph,
With a look of exultation,
As of one who in a vision
Sees what is to be, but is not,
Stood and waited Hiawatha.

Towards the sun his hands were lifted,*
Both the palms spread out against it,
And between the parted fingers
Fell the sunshine on his features,
Flecked with light his naked shoulders,
As it falls and flecks an oak-tree
Through the rifted leaves and branches.

O'er the water floating, flying,
Something in the hazy distance,
Something in the mists of morning,
Loomed and lifted from the water,
Now seemed floating, now seemed flying,
Coming nearer, nearer, nearer.

Was it Shingebis, the diver ?
Was it the pelican, the Shada ?
Or the heron, the Shuh-shuh-gah ?
Or the white goose, Waw-be-wawa,
With the water dripping, flashing
From its glossy neck and feathers ?

It was neither goose nor diver,
Neither pelican nor heron,
O'er the water floating, flying,
Through the shining mist of morning,
But a birch canoe with paddles,
Rising, sinking on the water,
Dripping, flashing in the sunshine.
And within it came a people
From the distant land of Wabun,
From the farthest realms of morning
Came the Black-Robe chief, the Prophet,
He the Priest of Prayer, the Pale-face,
With his guides and his companions.

And the noble Hiawatha,
With his hands aloft extended,
Held aloft in sign of welcome,
Waited, full of exultation,
Till the birch canoe with paddles
Grated on the shining pebbles,
Till the Black-Robe chief, the Pale-face,
With the cross upon his bosom,
Landed on the sandy margin.

HOLLANDS IS DIFFERENT

MANUFACTURE

It must seem strange to anyone who stops to think about it that, in these days of Empire buying, there should still be a large demand for a Gin that comes from abroad when so many excellent home-made Gins are available. When one adds to this the facts that the Dutch article costs more, is not used in most cocktails and is not at first taste very attractive to drink, it is obvious that there must be in Hollands Gin some unique properties that distinguish it from all other Spirits. Yes, Hollands is different, and the object of this article and of the one in the adjoining column is to describe how it is made, and the uses for which it is so uniquely suited.

The remarkable qualities of Hollands are due to the materials of which it is composed and the way in which it is made. The basis is what is called in Holland, Moutwijn, a Spirit distilled in pot stills at a low strength which retains all the beneficial qualities of the blended grain. This is then twice again distilled with the actual berries of the Alpine Juniper—forming the true Spiritus Juniperi of the medical text books and a diuretic of considerable value and safety.

The best Hollands, like the finest of brandies, is made, or should be made, in pot stills, which, while they produce the finest of spirits, permit the curative ethers and higher alcohols to remain in the liquid. When one knows that in the case of the best Hollands, such as De Kuyper's, the liquid passes not less than three times through their pot stills, one can begin to get some slight idea of the care that is taken in its preparation.

The production of Hollands is in the care of specialists; in the case of De Kuyper's the same family have given to it their unremitting attention for some 238 years, during which time they have constantly studied and improved the article which bears their name. It is not surprising, therefore, that the British public repay their devotion by putting their trust in them, and so acknowledge that Hollands has no rivals, no peers, and fills a place that nothing else can take.

De Kuyper's Heart Label Hollands is available in miniatures, quarter, half, and full-size bottles, from all fully licensed houses, and most wine merchants stock it. The prices are within everybody's reach.

IN USE

Many people are vaguely aware that Hollands is supposed to be good for them, without knowing precisely how it works and what it is good for. It is particularly what we may term a home medicine, especially for women throughout their life from adolescence to old age.

To start with, as a general pick-me-up it is a wonderful antidote for rheumatism, lumbago and many of its allied troubles. Hollands works directly on the Kidneys, enabling them to function properly and to eliminate injurious waste substances that affect the blood stream. In fact, it helps to do away with the conditions of internal poisoning that are so frequently the root causes of not only rheumatism, but also of many other allied complaints. Thus, it promotes a clear complexion, a healthy appetite and sound sleep and keeps weight down.

A regular dose of Hollands taken with warm water and lemon last thing every night is a priceless general tonic.

In addition to being a splendid general tonic, Hollands is invaluable in more specialised ways. Many women and girls today have to go to work whether they are feeling well or not. Periodic indisposition cannot be allowed to interfere with their regular duties, and at such times the full value of Hollands is experienced. It can be said without fear of contradiction that no other Gin approaches it in its beneficial results. In normal cases of feminine indisposition its effects is helpful and soothing, while for sluggish or congested conditions it acts definitely as a stimulant.

Again, women of middle age have learnt with reason to rely on de Kuyper's as their best friend in the troubles which come to them at that time.

A Booklet—"Here's Good Health"—describing the manufacture and uses of de Kuyper's Heart Label Hollands will be sent post FREE on application to the Rotterdam Distillers. Address your card to John De Kuyper & Son, 14, Trinity Sq., London, E.C.3

HIAWATHA'S DEPARTURE

Then the joyous Hiawatha
Cried aloud, and spake in this wise :
" Beautiful is the sun, O strangers,
When you come so far to see us !
All our town in peace awaits you,
All our doors stand open for you :
You shall enter all our wigwams,
For the heart's right hand we give you.

" Never bloomed the earth so gaily,
Never shone the sun so brightly,
As to-day they shine and blossom,
When you come so far to see us !
Never was our lake so tranquil,
Nor so free from rocks and sand-bars ;
For your birch canoe in passing
Has removed both rock and sand-bar !
" Never before had our tobacco
Such a sweet and pleasant flavour,
Never the broad leaves of our corn-fields
Were so beautiful to look on,
As they seem to us this morning,
When you come so far to see us ! "

And the Black-Robe chief made answer,
Stammered in his speech a little,
Speaking words yet unfamiliar :
" Peace be with you, Hiawatha,
Peace be with you and your people,
Peace of prayer, and peace of pardon,
Peace of Christ, and joy of Mary ! "

Then the generous Hiawatha
Led the strangers to his wigwam,
Seated them on skins of bison,
Seated them on skins of ermine,
And the careful old Nokomis
Brought them food in bowls of basswood,
Water brought in birchen dippers,
And the calumet, the peace-pipe,
Filled and lighted for their smoking.

All the old men of the village,
All the warriors of the nation,
All the Jossakeeds, the prophets,
The magicians, the Wabenos,
And the medicine-men, the Medas,
Came to bid the strangers welcome ;
" It is well," they said, " O brothers,
That you come so far to see us ! "

In a circle round the doorway,
With their pipes they sat in silence,
Waiting to behold the strangers,
Waiting to receive their message ;
Till the Black-Robe chief, the Pale-face,
From the wigwam came to greet them.
Stammering in his speech a little,
Speaking words yet unfamiliar ;
" It is well," they said, " O brother,
That you come so far to see us."

Then the Black-Robe chief, the prophet,
Told his message to the people,

Told the purport of his mission.
Told them of the Virgin Mary,
And her blessed Son, the Saviour :
How in distant lands and ages
He had lived on earth as we do ;
How he fasted, prayed, and laboured ;
How the Jews, the tribe accursed,
Mocked him, scourged him, crucified him ;
How he rose from where they laid him,
Walked again with his disciples,
And ascended into heaven.

And the Chiefs made answer, saying:
" We have listened to your message,
We have heard your words of wisdom.
We will think on what you tell us.
It is well for us, O brothers,
That you come so far to see us ! "

Then they rose up and departed
Each one homeward to his wigwam,
To the young men and the women
Told the story of the strangers
Whom the Master of Life had sent them
From the shining land of Wabun.

Heavy with the heat and silence
Grew the afternoon of summer ;
With a drowsy sound the forest
Whispered round the sultry wigwam,
With a sound of sleep the water
Rippled on the beach below it ;
From the cornfields shrill and ceaseless
Sang the grasshopper, Pah-puk-keena ;
And the guests of Hiawatha,
Weary with the heat of Summer,
Slumbered in the sultry wigwam,

Slowly o'er the simmering landscape
Fell the evening's dusk and coolness.
And the long and level sunbeams
Shot their spears into the forest,
Breaking through its shields of shadow,
Rushed into each secret ambush,
Searched each thicket, dingle, hollow ;
Still the guests of Hiawatha
Slumbered in the silent wigwam.

From his place rose Hiawatha,
Bade farewell to old Nokomis,
Spake in whispers, spake in this wise,
Did not wake the guests that slumbered :

" I am going, O Nokomis,
On a long and distant journey,
To the Portals of the Sunset,
To the regions of the home-wind.
But these guests I leave behind me,
In your watch and ward I leave them ;
See that never harm comes near them,
See that never fear molests them,
Never danger nor suspicion,
Never want of food or shelter,
In the lodge of Hiawatha ! "

MARTELL'S CORDON BLEU

HIAWATHA'S DEPARTURE

Forth into the village went he,
Bade farewell to all the warriors,
Bade farewell to all the young men,
Spake persuading, spake in this wise :

" I am going, O my people,
On a long and distant journey :
Many moons and many winters
Will have come, and will have vanished,
Ere I come again to see you.
But my guests I leave behind me ;
Listen to their words of wisdom,
Listen to the truth they tell you,
For the Master of Life has sent them
From the land of light and morning ! "

On the shore stood Hiawatha.
Turned and waved his hand at parting ;
On the clear and luminous water,
Launched his birch canoe for sailing,
From the pebbles of the margin
Shoved it forth into the water ;
Whispered to it, " Westward ! westward ! "
And with speed it darted forward.

And the evening sun descending
Set the clouds on fire with redness,
Burned the broad sky, like a prairie,
Left upon the level water
One long track and trail of splendour,
Down whose stream, as down a river,
Westward, westward Hiawatha
Sailed into the fiery sunset,

Sailed into the purple vapours,
Sailed into the dusk of evening.

And the people from the margin
Watched him floating, rising, sinking,
Till the birch canoe seemed lifted
High into that sea of splendour,
Till it sank into the vapours
Like the new moon, slowly, slowly
Sinking in the purple distance.

And they said, " Farewell for ever ! "
Said, " Farewell, O Hiawatha ! "
And the forests, dark and lonely,
Moved through all their depths of darkness,
Sighed, " Farewell, O Hiawatha ! "
And the waves upon the margin
Rising, rippling on the pebbles,
Sobbed, " Farewell, O Hiawatha ! "
And the heron, the Shuh-shuh-gah,
From her haunts among the fenlands,
Screamed, " Farewell, O Hiawatha ! "

Thus departed Hiawatha,
Hiawatha the Beloved,
In the glory of the sunset,
In the purple mists of evening,
To the regions of the home-wind,
Of the Northwest wind, Keewaydin,
To the Islands of the Blessed,
To the kingdom of Ponemah,
To the land of the Hereafter !

Maureen O'Sullivan

PROTECTS HER
LOVELY COMPLEXION
with
POTTER & MOORE'S
POWDER-CREAM

Maureen O'Sullivan, the famous M.G.M. Star, says :—"Whether indoors or in the open air, I can always be quite sure that after using Potter & Moore's Powder-Cream my complexion will keep its smooth matt finish for hours, however trying the weather or temperature may be."

POTTER & MOORE'S BLUSH CREAM

is the ideal cream rouge for use in combination with Potter & Moore's Powder-Cream. You really must try them both. Apply the cream rouge first and you will be amazed at the perfect results. The Blush Cream is sold in dainty glass jars for sixpence everywhere

You will be thrilled in using Potter & Moore's Powder-Cream. It gives an utterly new effect—a delicate matt complexion of youthful freshness, never artificial, always adorable. You will be delighted too at how smoothly it blends and how it lasts longer than any powder you've ever used. It is almost miraculous the softer, younger loveliness that appears after the use of Potter & Moore's Powder-Cream.

Every jar is fitted with a dainty mirror.
In all popular shades, and two perfumes,
Mitcham Lavender and Eau de Cologne. 1/- a JAR
