ON AWAY, awake, beloved,
Thou wild flower of the forest,
Thou the wild bird of the prairie,
Thou with eyes so soft and brown!
If thou only lookest at me,
I am happy, I am happy!
As the lilies of the prairie,
When they dew upon them feel!

Sweet thy breath is as the fragrance of the flowers in the morn.
As their fragrance is at evening, in the Moon
when leaves do fall.
Does not all the blood within me leap to meet
thee, Onaway,
As the springs to meet the sunshine in the Moon
when nights are bright?
Onaway!

Onaway! my heart sings to thee,
Sings with joy, when thou art near,
As the sighing, singing branches
In the pleasant Springtime Moon.
When thou art not pleased, beloved,
Then my heart is sad and dark,
As the shining river darkens
When the clouds on it throw shade.

When thou smilest, my beloved,
Then my troubled heart is brightened,
As in sunshine gleam the ripples,
That cold winds in rivers make.

Smiles the earth, and smile the waters,
Smile the cloudless skies above,
But I lose the way of smiling
When thou art no longer near.
Onaway! I myself, behold me!
Blood of my beating heart, behold!
O awake, awake, beloved,
Onaway! beloved awake,
Onaway! Onaway! Onaway, wake,
Awake! loved one, Onaway!

"Sunrise"

"Departure of the Caravan"

The Liedertafel and Orchestra.

AGAIN our march we resume, going on
Across the weary wastes alone,
The depths of the desert beholding,
We forward press throughout the day,
Though days are long, and long the way,
Life no joys unfolding :
And as we go, we yearn to know
How Fate our course is moulding.
We take our way, with a song we march,
With full delight, we onward fare,
Beneath this blue overhanging arch
We freely breathe in ample air.
We sing, we march

Allah, Allah, to Thee I render homage,
 Allah, Allah, of Thine eternity, of Thine
 immensity,
 I am the created image.
 Allah, Allah !
 To Thee be praise, Thou ruler of creation,
 That dwellest in eternity.
 The solitude of the desert
 Thou fillest with Thy majesty,
 Allah, Allah !

PART SONGS—

(a) "O Sanctissima"
Old Italian.

(b) "The Hunters' Joy"
Asthoiz.

The Liedertafel.

O Sanctissima ! O Piissima !
 Dulcis Virgo, Maria,
 Mater amata intemerata ;
 Ora, ora pro nobis !

HAL-LOH ! Hal-loh ! Hal-loh !
 Hal-loh ! o'er hill and dale we go,
 Thro' smiling forest bounding,
 No fear of danger can we know,
 While loud the hunter's horn we blow,
 The woods and craigs resounding
 Echo as we go.

Tra-ra.

The sunbeams fill our hearts with glee,
 With rapture now our souls are free,
 All dangers then we laugh to scorn,
 While merry sounds the twanging horn,
 All dangers then we laugh to scorn,
 While merry sounds the horn.

Tra-ra.

The eager chase to follow,
O'er hill thro' break and hollow.
And when the nimble deer we spy,
With ecstasy our hearts beat high,
All dangers laugh to scorn,
While merry sounds the horn,
Tra-ra.

Our homeward way now wending,
We pause awhile at even's close,
Beneath some dear one's window,
And wish her sweet repose,
We pause beneath her window,
And sing at even's close.
Repose thou dearest maiden,
May heav'nly angels guard thy rest,
For thou with joy and beauty,
The hunter's life has blest.
Beneath thy chamber window,
The happy day we close,
Repose ! Repose !
Hal-loh ! Hal-loh ! etc.

SONG—

“A Woodland Serenade”

Mascheroni.

Mr. J. W. Wade.

PART SONG—

“Happy Hours”

J. Siede.

The Liedertafel and Orchestra.

HAIL, O Night !
Calm and bright ;
From care all hearts set free :
Peace restoring,
Come in thy majesty !
Shine brightly on us with thy mild beaming eye,
From thy glad presence all sorrow shall fly,
As with the merry dance and song,
The happy hours will pass along
In harmony and revelry.

While pleasure reigning holds her radiant sway,
And hearts unfeigning glad homage pay,
While joy and beauty on life's pathway shine,
Why should we sorrow, why then repine ?
Youth, happy youth, is life's richest prize !
Then love, then young love, beams in beauty's bright eyes

Banish maiden, all thoughts of sorrow,
Cares that sadden thee leave till morrow ;
And lightly as thy twinkling feet,
Light my fond heart doth beat ;
Thy fond glance I meet,
When thou art near.

List to the beeze, love.
Softly whisp'ring through the trees, love,
While the moon in her splendour sheds her rays
from above ;
Gently, so gently, on zephyrs borne, love stealing,
Softly in whispers, two fond hearts appealing ;
Thine's my heart, dearest maiden,
With love's bliss ever laden ;
Thine are my thoughts, ever thine.

Hark ! Hark ! 'tis the midnight chime,
Wafted on the sweet wing of time ;
It sighs farewell, with parting knell.
Farewell, fair maiden, we shall meet again ;
Joy's in the future though parting is pain ;
Parting is brief, joy shall remain.
Fare thee well !
