

Part Song "For Home and Liberty" Action

LIEDERTAFEL

HARK, brothers, hark! the trumpet's warning blast!
Arm, brothers, arm; the foe is gath'ring fast:
The roll of the drums
Pierce muttering comes,
With tramp of hurrying feet;
And the senses reel
In the gleam of steel
Where the flashing squadrons meet.
Fight, brothers, fight for home and liberty:
Charge, brothers, charge; the hirelings turn and flee.
Like avalanche hurl'd
From the Ice-king's world,
With thunderous crash we go;
And the mighty host
Of the Tyrant's boast
Has melted away like snow.

Mourn, brothers, mourn for those who bravely fell:
Pray, brothers, pray for those who fought so well.
In their warlike pride
As they nobly died
With face to the foe, they're laid;
We will carve each name
On the scroll of fame:
Their memory shall not fade.
March, brothers, march in sight of home again;
Sing, brothers, sing a loud triumphant strain:
Let our lov'd ones hear
That the hour is near
For which they have yearn'd so long;
Let each hill and dale,
And echoing vale
Resound with the joyful song!

Romanza and Scena "Voi lo Sapete" (Cavalleria Rusticana) Mascagni
Signora CUTTICA

INTERVAL.

PART II.

Cantata "Festgesang" Mendelssohn

LIEDERTAFEL

LET all creation praise the Lord,
Ye nations, bow before Him;
In choral strains with one accord,
Extol Him and adore Him.
Ye orbs of day that roll in light,
Ye distant stars that gem the night,
O praise your great Creator!
Angelic hosts repeat the song,
Ye prophets clad in glory,
Ye ransom'd tribes the theme prolong,
Repeat the wondrous story;
Ye spirits, who are flaming fires,
Awake your trumpets, strike your lyres,
O praise your great Creator!

Let our theme of praise ascending,
Blent in music's lofty strain,
Soaring through the starry main,
Peal in echoes never ending.
Learning dawn'd, its light arose;
Thus the Truth assailed its foes.
Faith and Hope began to banish
Doubt and soul-appalling fear;
Spreading, shining still more clear,
Error in their beams will vanish.
Mortals roam'd without a guide,
Darkness clouded ev'ry nation;
Not a ray could be descried,
All was gloom and desolation,
Till the earth with one accord
Shall adore and praise the Lord.

The Word went forth, the Word was Light;
God spake, His radiance darted,
Light made chaotic darkness bright,
And night from day was parted.
In space the starry hosts He hung,
The Universe in music sung
Its great Creator's glory!
Still all these countless orbs above,
Hail Him in concert as they move,
His praise in everlasting song
Rings through the vast celestial throng.
Soon may we join the lay
His heav'nly chorus raises,
And stand in bright array
To harp and sing our praises.
Where shining Cherubim,
And flaming Seraphim,
Their hallelujahs blend
In strains that never end.

Grand Duo "Parigi o Cara" (La Traviata) Verdi
Signora CUTTICA and Signor CUTTICA

Quartet Andante and Presto from D Major, Quartet Op 44, No. 1 Mendelssohn
MELBOURNE POPULAR QUARTET

Part Song "Alpine Night" Abt
LIEDERTAFEL

NIGHT around is gently closing,
As the light of day doth fail
Every songbird is reposing:
Silence fills the Alpine vale.
See, the meadows darkly shaded
Bid thee, Wanderer, depart;
Alpine night, with shadows laded,
Ah, how beautiful thou art.
Softest winds are idly blowing,
Like elves' music in the trees,
Thro' the flow'r-clad meadows flowing
Brooklets answer to the breeze.
Swift the eagle homeward flying,
Stirs the slumb'ring ev'ning air,
Alpine night, in shadow lying,
Thou art fair, ay, passing fair!

Like grim giants darkly frowning,
Mountains tower wild and drear,
But the sky their heights is crowning
And the stars are bright and clear.
And a fitful light is gleaming
On the lake beneath our feet,
Alpine night, so full of dreaming,
Thou art passing fair and sweet!
When the pale moon mutely gazes
On the scene so still, so fair,
In the heart a thought she raises,
Like a pain'd and wordless pray'r.
From my eyes the tears are flowing,
Rest, oh! rest thou too, my heart!
Alpine night, with beauty glowing,
Ah, how fair thou art!

Quartet "Un di se ben" (Rigoletto) Verdi
Signora CUTTICA, Miss ADA CROSSLEY, Signor CUTTICA, and Signor MELOSSI

Part Song "Sunrise" Riets
LIEDERTAFEL

THE starlight pale is waning,
Ere long will the dawn appear,
The deepest silence is reigning,
From the woods no sound I hear.

Alone on the hilltop I wander,
And watch thro' the chill night air,
In the dark horizon yonder,
The light that will glimmer there.

While here in darkness lonely,
I wait for the coming ray,
One voice I hear, and one only,
'Tis the torrent far away.

What joys and what griefs will be given,
Ere this coming day is done.
Let me raise then my heart to Heaven,
In pray'r from the mountain lone.

The sigh of the forest grows stronger;
Morning light suddenly breaks.
The lark's song grows louder and longer,
From night's slumber Earth now awakes.

"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN"

CHAS. D. DIXON, Hon. Secretary.